5 Portfolio Updates

Naz asked executives to please note and attend their office hours. Naz reminded executives that they had each committed to office hours and meetings each week, and should remember that. Naz also reminded executives to please communicate transparently about their capacity, so that they can be supported when they need it. Naz noted that any events and collaborations should be budgeted for, and asked executives to communicate with Mahmoud about their finances in advance. Naz reminded executives not to be complacent as we reach the end of the year.

Julia reminded executives to take note of the office cleaning roster this week. Julia asked executives to please communicate as soon as possible when they have timetabling changes, to ensure we can set the SULLS Office hours timetable. Christine suggested that we set a deadline, which Naz and Julia agreed would be helpful.

Danielle noted that the Competitions portfolio is still looking for Internal Convenors. Naz asked executives to please check with their Committee members. Vaughan noted that he has noticed some people are interested in helping out on an ad hoc basis. Danielle noted that applications are closing soon for the Competitions Education programs.

Priya explained that Law Ball preparations have been underway and that details should be released publicly soon.

Lucas noted that the Dean has confirmed that over the past few months, there has been a significant increase in the number of students making use of Disability Services.

Lea reminded executives that the collaboration event with KLUS, CLSS and SEALS will be taking place next Monday. Naz reminded executives of the importance of attending and meeting the other executives.

Naz noted that Emily will be leading SULLS' decisions on how we would like to proceed with events regarding the Voice referendum.

Charis explained that Dissent and Law in Society contributor callouts have been extended. Charis noted low engagement with callouts. Charis noted that Yemaya and Mosaic callouts are also open, and asked executives to direct any people they know who are interested in writing towards writing for SULLS publications. Charis said that the Blackacre editorial team is also working on the publication and the callouts for contributions.
